

Off-Campus Study - Cost of Attendance Worksheet

Bates allows its financial aid to “travel” to ensure that the option of studying off-campus is available to all students. These awards are based on the categories listed below. Financial aid is needed by many students, on and off-campus, so it is necessary to be careful and prudent in the calculation of the “Cost of Attendance.” Students and families should be aware that off-campus study generally includes additional expenses that are the students’ responsibility. These include passport and visa expenses, immunizations, extra travel while abroad and, in many cases, extra personal expenses.
